Princeton Firms Show Confidence In Town's Future

Several Remodeling Projects Now Under Way As Stores Plan For More Business

That home folk believe strongly in Princeton's future is being abundantly evidenced here this week, with several major remodeling projects in the downtown district calling attention to the growth and progress of this county seat.

The Princeton Lumber Company's completely rebuilt home will soon be ready for its formal opening and is the largest of several such remodeling projects now under way.

The sale of the Ed McElhat building recently to the McGough Paint and Wall Paper Store, at $13,500, shown that values of business property in the downtown district have hit a new high. The McGough firm has possession May 31, 1950.

Another large project under way is the construction of a modern front for the Ben Franklin Store, N. B. Cameron proprietor. This store will also be completely rehabilitated inside, with new and modern fixtures.

The J. C. Penney Company here has about completed an overhaul job inside, with addition of a dress fitting room and an office for Manager H. Merle Dean on the balcony floor.

Whose Ox Is Gored?

(Editorial)

The Leader, is, of course, pleased that Commissioner of Revenue Clyde Reeves has stood firm in his support of the Citizens Committee's effort to bring about a fair tax assessment in Caldwell county.

When this movement began we stated we favored it, because it obviously is unfair for one neighbor to pay part of another's taxes.

With Love And Honor

Flowers worn Sunday will have a special significance, whether they are costly corsages fashioned by deft hands of florists or simple blossoms plucked from gardens.

The second Sunday in May is the day on which the nation pays tribute to mothers. The red flowers will be for those among the living, the white for those who are memories.

As we remember the mothers, both the living and the dead, on this spring day, we think of the great good they have done down the centuries, their sacrifices, their hopes and fears, and above all, their unfaltering love for their children.

We remember the words of comfort, of understanding, of rebuke and of advice. We remember our mothers as living examples of greatness and love.

We forget petty irritations, stern refusal regarding things we wanted to do, and all the times we thought we were completely misunderstood.

That is the children's side of Mother's Day. For the mothers themselves, this day has become one of rededication, of determining to fulfill all the glories of motherhood, of praying for wisdom to speak the right words at the right time so children may have the benefit of wise guidance.

It is a day for better understanding, for love and for honor.

Mr. Churchill's Visit

Winston Churchill has been visiting this country at intervals for a long time. He came first, so far as the records show, late in 1895, on his way to act as a correspondent in Cuba. No cheering crowds greeted him and there were no communists to picket his meetings or his hotel. He was here again in 1900, lecturing on the Boer War, and because of his adventures therein sufficiently a celebrity to be introduced by none other than Mark Twain. His visits have been interrupted by various obligations—service as a cavalryman in the old days in India; a Cabinet post and a taste of the front line in the First World War; a crushing responsibility and a role in the Second World War that will live forever in history.

The people of this country have thus known him in his impulsive and adventurous youth, in the midstream struggles of his great career, and now as an elder statesman. His physical strength has diminished, but the pungency of his thinking and speaking has not. The man who acted so splendidly has given us also splendid, resounding words. It hardly matters now whether he calls himself a liberal or a conservative. He has spoken and acted for human liberty at the moments of its greatest crises. He so speaks and acts now. With each visit he is increasingly welcome here. May he come soon again.

Care Of Children

America's medical care of its 36,000,000 children is among the best in the world. Yet according to the two-volume report of the American Academy of Pediatrics which has just been published by the Commonwealth Fund, medical care for children in this country varies greatly from community to community. In some counties where modern medical services are scarce, five times as many infants die as in those which have adequate medical care.

As the report points out, the greatest need at the present time is for more adequate training of doctors in the care of children. Three-quarters of the private medical care of this kind is in the hands of the general practitioner, who too frequently gets his first real experience in this field after he enters practice.

To meet the need of more training for those doctors who care for children, and for a better distribution of medical care, the Academy has proposed a twofold program. It suggests an expanded program of pediatric education for both medical students and practitioners and improving services in isolated areas by a continuing program of rotation of resident physicians from large medical teaching centers through outlying community hospitals.

Recognizing that the answer to better child health lies not solely in more hospitals and more money to pay doctor bills, the report points out that medical services and facilities are only as good as the doctors who provide the professional care and staff the hospitals and clinics. The Academy of Pediatrics and the Commonwealth Fund are to be commended for this contribution to the health and well-being of our children.

Kentucky On The March

In Defense Of Lawyers

By Ewing Galloway

"The profession of law is the only aristocratic element which can be amalgamated without violence with the national elements of democracy, and which can be advantageously and permanently combined with them."

De Toqueville, famous French scholar and statesman, wrote the foregoing truthful lines in his "Democracy in America" a century ago.

Certainly legal minds have guided the destiny of this nation from its birth until today, and what might have become of the American republic without them is hard to imagine.

All my life I have heard people sneer at lawyers, saying they serve the public only when they have something to gain, and most of my life I have found the contrary to be true.

There is not a community betterment project in Kentucky in this good year 1949 that cannot get the free services of a lawyer for the asking. And every civic organization can use the sound advice of a good lawyer quite often.

Here in western Kentucky lawyers have been generous with their professional work in farmers' organizations—farm bureaus, cooperatives, protective organizations for the apprehension and prosecution of thieves.

Recently the Committee for Henderson City and County picked a lawyer, John Palmore, for its president.

If I were to form a business partnership with as many as four persons in it, I would want one of them to be a lawyer. Any civic organization in the state that does not have a lawyer participating in all its councils should get one and apologize for not asking him to join up long ago.

While I'm on the subject of lawyers let me add the risk of being accused of giving advice to the legal profession by offering a suggestion to people with all kinds of business transactions. In the educational literature of insurance companies, public health organizations, you are told repeatedly to see your doctor when anything gets the matter with you. Few times if any have you been urged to see a lawyer when you have business deals to make.

Not long ago a man in our county bought a farm for $10,000. Several months later he dug up his deed and re-read it. It didn't seem to be exactly right, so he took it to a lawyer. He had paid his good money for the life interest of a woman 79 years old and nothing more. For a nominal fee a lawyer would have saved the man a $10,000 headache.

Another man bought a filling station. Paid $5,000 for the real estate and equipment and $4,000 for "good will." Later he got to wondering if he hadn't been gold-bricked, and consulted a lawyer. The lawyer told him he had paid four thousand bucks for two words that didn't mean anything tangible or intangible, because the filling station carried with it all possible good will that could be involved.

To civic organization and to individuals I'd say: See your lawyer.

Pennyrile Postscripts

By G.M.P.

Well, painting went on at our house last week while I was gone (thank goodness) and our cocker boots got his long ears in a can of very green enamel. Honey said she used gasoline and scissors to get the paint off.

Pennyrile has decided long airplane journeys, especially on windy days, are for young folks, strictly. Not that the "bumpy" ride made your reporter sick, but the rough weather caused me to miss all connections and instead of the trip to Denver from Evansville requiring only the advertised 6 hours, it was 14 hours between those points. So I arrived, well whipped down, at 4 A. M., and then, of course, couldn't sleep.

I must report however that the jaunt from St. Louis to Kansas City, in a huge Constellation, at 9,000 feet, missed all the rough spots and, taking only an hour and 10 minutes, was very enjoyable. At St. Louis I was paged in the airport and advised my bag had been lost . . . and it didn't show up until the day I was ready to start home!

Denver is a very nice city, in my opinion; its people universally friendly, even cordial, to strangers. Of course I hunted up some Kentucky folks who have moved out there for various reasons . . . and found all of them homesick for the Blue Grass state. I rode in four taxis and, believe it or not, every one of those drivers claimed to be from Kentucky! Three were coming home for the Derby.

From the Denver Post came this clipping:
BIRDS ON WING
SO GAILY SING
OF HAPPY SPRING

Spring is here, our hearts to flutter: Daffodils and peanut butter; School of Mines boys playing pranks; goldfish bubbling in their tanks.

Continuing spring's catalog, list a tadpole turning frog, jacks and marbles, pussy willows, sleepy heads on feather pillows. Lazy strollers greeting noon, yo-yos, kites and, lover's moon, nasturtium seeds and sprinkled lawns, picnics, marbles, stifled yawns.—A. M.

Very pleased to note that the daughter of our good friend Ellen Hopson White (and husband) of Cadiz is to represent the University of Kentucky in the Queen's contest at the Mountain Laurel Festival, May 26-28. Frances is a senior at UK, a Phi Beta Kappa and, of course, a real beauty of the West Kentucky type that's hard to beat.

Marie fooled all the female Coffee Club members at the drug store the other day with some dummy candy that wouldn't come out of its lovely box . . . and then did the same with the male dittos. If it were not for the Coffee Club members, I would know little of the real dangers of mumps.

Very pleasing to this reporter to see in the Leader on returning

Barkley Jokes About His Job

Vice President Alben Barkley, number one joke-maker of President Truman's "Fair Deal" administration, is a "working" Vice President but likes to kid about his job. He told a mayors' conference that there are two things a Vice President has to do:

"One is to keep awake in the Senate to be sure there isn't a tie vote . . . that is the only time a Vice President has a chance to vote. The other is to read the newspapers every morning to see how the President's health is." Another Barkley story on the vice presidency:

"Once a man had two sons. One ran off and went to sea. The other became Vice-President. The man never heard from either son again." As Barkley rose to make his acceptance speech at the Democratic National Convention last summer at Philadelphia he said: "Inasmuch as I am about to become a candidate for an office which requires 4 years of silence, I will be brief."

KEY TO A CABINET

Of the several keys your pharmacist carries with him at all times, there is one in particular that he guards more carefully than any other. It's the key to a cabinet in his prescription department . . . a cabinet that holds his stock of narcotic drugs . . . opium, morphine, cocaine, and others.

These drugs are among the most important in pharmacy, for they are the ones your physician prescribes to provide relief from the tortments of insufferable pain. Their quieting, comforting, pain-relieving action is truly a blessing to mankind.

But, unfortunately, these drugs are also a scourge to society when wrongly used. If they fell into the hands of unprincipled "dope peddlers" they would become part of an illegitimate traffic which wrecks the lives of countless addicts each year.

The pharmacist's key is society's key to narcotic control. It opens the door to the pain-relieving benefits of these drugs but locks the door to their abuse.

Great is the pharmacist's responsibility in safeguarding society through the careful control of narcotic drugs . . . and enviable is his high record of performance in living up to his responsibility.—Reprinted from a copyrighted advertisement published by Parke, Davis & Company, Detroit 23, Michigan.

The vaccinating of heifer eyes between the ages of six months and nine months under "Kentucky Plan for Bang's disease" should be of interest to a large number of dairy farmers in the county. The plan was inaugurated by the State Department of Agriculture as a free service to farmers in an effort to help eradicate Bang's disease from our herds by eventually replacing older cows with vaccinated heifers.

Farmers interested in having their calves vaccinated should report their names and number of calves to this office or to one of the farmers listed in last week's paper who have been designated to help register calves for vaccination.

Bang's is a disease that may show up in anyone's herd even when ordinary precaution is followed. Interested dairymen should turn in the number of calves they desire to have vaccinated as soon as possible as the veterinarian will begin vac-

Beans and Sweet Corn

The time is here to start beans and sweet corn. Although some doubt attends their surviving what frosty weather may still come, the seed expense is small, and the loss is insignificant. On the other hand, if plantings so early should succeed, the early beans and corn that result are quite worth crowing about.

The general fertilizing scheme outlined here several times previously is correct; both need phosphorus. There is, however, one extraordinary thing that home gardeners may do profitably with regard to beans, and that is inoculating the seed. This procedure has paid off generously on fields of canning beans, but some garden soils may already be inoculated, as nodules on bean plant roots testify. Several patented forms of inoculating material are handled by seedsmen; the directions for using them are printed on the container, as well as the list of other garden legumes they benefit.

Also, here is a note relative to sweet corn that may save work that is quite unnecessary: "suckering" sweet corn never pays, and may do harm. The suckers are merely the corn's safety valve, when the season is immediately moist.

Both these vegetables are planted by system, to have them at top freshness. Thus, for corn, the first planting is double, using Golden Cross Bantam and Carmelcross, half and half. The latter, 10 days earlier than Golden Cross makes the first lot of roasting ears; the Golden, the next. Two weeks after the first planting, Golden is planted again, and so on until almost Aug. 1, to make a program of good sweet corn continuous.

For beans, the first planting might be of Red Valentine, a hardy sort. Thereafter, at two weeks' intervals, Stringless Green pod, Tendergreen or Logan may

Vacations On Farms

New York, N. Y., (AP)—An unusual plan for the coming summer months which will increase farm incomes and broad-follow until July 15, to make a steady stream of fresh beans. The plantings of June and July should be doubled to furnish canning surplus. Or during June and July special plantings may be made of USS, a drought resistor, and a bean with real flavor that cans superbly.

en understandings between urban and rural people has been presented by Grange organizations to members in 12 states from Maine to Virginia.

The plan encourages farmers who have two or more spare rooms to take in city vacationers on a paying basis, and thus develop a new type or resort business in rural areas.

The project was originated by William F. Wolfe, New York representative.

Wants Publicity In Juvenile Crime

Swansea, Wales.—(AP)—Swansea's chief police officer recommended a new approach to juvenile delinquency: let newspapers print the names of children in court cases.

"It is a well known fact," chief constable D. V. Turner said in his annual report, "that offenders, whether adolescent or adults, are usually more perturbed about publicity in the press than about penalties inflicted in court."

Present laws ban the publication of names and addresses of children dealt with by juvenile panels.

Head Scarves Bring Memories

London.—(AP)—A reader away up in Alloa, Scotland, wrote to the "Daily Mirror" to thank girls who wear picture scarves on their heads. Because of these, he said, "every morning my bus ride to work brings me new joys, new horizons, memories of old ones."

"One morning I saw a circus, with clowns and performing horses, and on another mosques and minarets. Later on I met pirates with golden earrings and kegs of rum."

"Every week I roam the world. I see the Taj Mahal, the racecourse at Alexandria, Naples and its lovely bay, Paris, lovely ladies languishing in the harems of the East."

"Thanks, girls, for those lovely daydreams—and memories."

Lusitania Lifeboat

To Be Moved

Broadstairs, England.—(AP)—The village council has decided to move its principal monument, a lifeboat from the ill-fated liner Lusitania. Brought to this southeastern England resort years ago as a memento of the tragic sinking of the liner, the lifeboat is to be shifted to "a more suitable spot." These are the reasons given by the councilors:

"Visitors who arrive in a festive spirit do not want to see the town decorated with dead men's rafts. It is nearly 35 years since this sad tragedy of the sea occurred and there have been even worse horrors in the late war. It is a menace and a danger to the children who play in it."

Recipe Of The Week

Hungry for baked ham? It's not a long process if you use a two-pound slice. Prepared with fruit, such as canned pineapple, apples (with brown sugar and apricot halves or sliced raw cloves added), your family will clamor for more, predicts Mrs. Pearl Haak, food specialist at the College of Agriculture and Home Economics, University of Kentucky.

Tropical Ham

2 pounds smoked or cured ham ¾ inch thick, 1-2 cup fruit juice or water, 4 slices pineapple.

Place ham in baking pan. Add fruit juice or water with slices of pineapple laid over the top of the ham. Bake at 325 degrees for 45 minutes or until ham is tender.

Menu: Ham with pineapple, baked stuffed potatoes, buttered asparagus, mint-cabbage slaw, baking powder biscuits, butter and angel food cake with berries.

Woman Turns Feed Sacks Into Clothes

It's amazing what can be done with feed sacks and other odds and ends if one has the ingenuity and skill with which to do it, says Luella E. Warren, home demonstration agent in Clark county.

Some of the ways Mrs. W. E. Weldon of Clark county uses feed sacks to make useful articles are reviewed by the home agent. "With the skill of a professional seamstress," said Mrs. Warren; "much of which she learned at training schools for club clothing leaders, she makes dresses for street and house wear that look as if they might have come from a fashionable dress shop."

"While busy at various house-keeping jobs she often wears attractive aprons made from sacks. In addition to dresses and aprons she also uses feed sacks for other household purposes. From bright red, green and other checked bags, luncheon clothes have been made. The kitchen windows are often curtained with gay designs one would never guess had once encased feed for

New Chemical Used To Preserve Posts

How fence posts can be preserved by dipping them in a chemical solution known as pentachlorophenol, commonly called "penta," is told by W. E. Jackson, extension forester for the College of Agriculture and Home Economics, University of Kentucky.

The usual method is to stick the post butts in an oil drum filled with the solution of penta and oil. The posts should be peeled and seasoned before treatment. Such wood as black or yellow locust and osage orange need not be treated.

Cost of treating fence post is estimated at 12 to 20 cents, depending on the size and kind of wood. A list of companies that handle penta can be had at county agent offices.

Each year five to six million posts are used in building and rebuilding fences in Kentucky, according to Forester Jackson. It is estimated that an average of a quarter of a mile of fence a farm is rebuilt each year.

cows or turkeys.

"Mattress covers, sheets, pillow cases, ruffled bed spreads, comfort covers, dresser scarfs and chair covers made from sacks may be found in her bedroom."

"Pajamas, night gowns and everyday slips are also made from feed bags."

"For her back porch she has made drapes from bags, and plans to cover a chair to match."

"Death" Was Not Too Serious

Memphis, Tenn.—(AP)—Two o'clock in the morning, and a sudden sharp report like a pistol shot.

Mrs. Ada Morris told herself it was nothing.

Then foot-falls and hushed voices. She crept to the window. Shadowy forms were clustered around a power-pole on the street. She caught the word "dead." The figures melted away.

Mrs. Morris grabbed a phone and called police.

But the utilities truck got there almost as soon as the police did, and put a new fuse in the switch-box.

Cows Produce More

By following recommended practices in caring for their herd of 16 grade and registered Holstein cows, John Burns and Sons of Louisa, Lawrence county, increased the herd milk production by 1,200 pounds in one year, they told Farm Agent James F. Moore. In 1947 the herd average was 8,100 pounds; a year later they had increased it to 9,300 pounds. Each cow's feed ration was based on the records of her reproduction as kept by the dairymen.

Doctor Gives Cancer Warning

Washington — (AP) — Some doctors sometimes mistake a cancer for a non-malignant growth and don't cut extensively enough in removing it, a Boston cancer expert says. Declaring that doctors, in operating on any "ambiguous" growth — such as a lump they might suspect of being only a benign "wen" — should always keep the possibility of cancer in mind, Dr. Grantley W. Taylor told reporters:

"It's much better to do too much surgery for a benign condition than to do too little for a malignancy." Chairman of the cancer committee of the American College of Surgeons which met here recently, Taylor said he was speaking of incorrect diagnosis of "sarcomas" — that is, cancer that originates in relation to "mass" tissues, such as muscles, tendons, bones, and beneath the skin. They are distinguished from "carcinomas" — or cancers that originate on the surface of an organ or the surface of the "ducts" of an organ, such as in the breast.

He said a benign growth might be compared to a chestnut (though not necessarily of that size) whereas a sarcoma has surrounding offshoots that might be compared to a chestnut with the burrs still on it.

"If you just skim around the lump you feel," he said, something "is left behind" in the case of a sarcoma — so that the condition can recur.

Asserting that "your first chance of cure is your best chance," Taylor said that at Massachusetts General Hospital the cure rate among original sarcomas is 50 percent — but only 25 percent among sarcomas that have recurred.

Construction Starts On Garrard Hospital

Construction of Garrard County's $313,250 general hospital began yesterday at Lancaster, the State Health Department announced.

The county has been without hospital facilities.

The new hospital, to contain 30 beds and 12 bassinets, is being financed by a County bond issue, public contributions, and a $100,000 allotment from the U. S. Public Health Service. The U.S.P.H.S. on April 29 gave final approval of the building plans.

One of the new aerosols dispenses a mothicide which will prepare an entire wardrobe for storage in 10 to 15 minutes and is said to moth-treat suits, rug and upholstery in a matter of seconds.

Jest Among Us

By Jack Wild

When in a recent column I wrote, "If there's a fairer bit of land than the 13 miles between Versailles and Lexington, I'd like to see it," I should have known that somebody somewhere would raise up to challenge the iffy statement. Fred J. Burkhard, of the Casey County News, Liberty, did it first:

"Mr. Wild has undoubtedly never been to Casey County in the spring or he would not say that white-fenced cow pastures around Lexington were so outstandingly beautiful. As a matter of pure beauty, Casey County ranks with and is probably superior in beauty to any county in the state..."

Well, now, what I said was that if there is a fairer bit of land than the Versailles-Lexington stretch, I'd like to see it. One of these days I'm going to take Editor Burkhard up on his invitation to visit Casey County. I'm going to see for myself how pretty it is, but don't expect a report on it in this column. No more of that for me!

To paraphrase Will Rogers' famous remark, all I know about Casey County is what I see in Herman Ellis. Herman is a native of Hustonville, Casey County, a graduate of Berea College (where, by the way, he was Fred Burkhard's roommate), and now a Commerce professor at U. K. Often Herman and I play ping-pong with other staff members during the lunch hour, often we are partners, and often we get beat. Herman just grins. A good sport as well as a good teacher, he is popular with colleagues and students. If there's a nicer guy anywhere than Casey County's Herman Ellis, I'd like to—well, he's a pretty nice guy.

Back to the subject: I've done considerable rambling around this old commonwealth, from Big Sandy to the Mississippi, and I've found places of great beauty in every section. It is a beautiful state. So, despite what I just said, I'll stick my neck out again and second Fred Burkhard's motion that Kentucky is "perhaps the most beautiful" of the 48 states—and we'll be hearing from the other 47 by sundown.

Early To Full Bloom
Best Time To Cut Hay

Best time to cut alfalfa, clovers and other hays is between early and full bloom, according to the College of Agriculture and Home Economics, University of Kentucky. More feed value is obtained at this stage. While the total yield may increase during the late bloom state, the digestibility and protein content go down. The fiber in young grasses and legumes is fairly digestible, but later on it changes into a state of practically no feed value, it was stated.

The Detroit Tigers averaged 44,907 paid admissions for their 14 home night games during 1948.

BLAST WRECKS NEW HOME—This newly constructed residence in suburban Edina (Minneapolis, Minn.) was just about ready for occupancy when an explosion (April 25) blew it apart. The blast occurred while a crew was repairing a broken gas pipe in a ditch in front of the dwelling. No one was injured. The contractor said the home was to have sold for $13,800. (AP Wirephoto)

Elbow Grease Helps
Renew Oak Furniture

Wondering what to do with old, dark-stained oak furniture? With some elbow grease and time, and not too great cost, it can be made into beautiful modern-looking blonde furniture.

Mrs. Rozel Nichols of Hancock county first heard about this at the Hawesville Homemakers Club. Her husband helped remove the old finish from an oak dining table, a sideboard and eight chairs. Then they sanded them to satin smoothness. Now Mrs. Nichols is awaiting the next meeting of her homemakers club to learn what the succeeding steps will be.

How to mend broken pieces of furniture, fill holes, take out stains and spots and remove dents were other practical ideas 15 leaders of eight clubs learned from Mrs. Frances Soper, specialist in home furnishings at the College of Agriculture and Home Economics, University of Kentucky, and Home Agent Judith Rowland.

Refinish Woodwork
And Pews In Church

Homemakers in Oldham county who belong to Shiloh Methodist Church near Skylight have used skills learned in their homemakers club to good advantage, notes Miss Lilah Hembree, home agent. Instead of buying new pews for the church which was recently rebuilt, the women removed the finish from the old ones, revealing beautiful wood with interesting carving across the back of each pew. After completing that job, they refinished the lovely old altar railing and then sanded and refinished the woodwork of the church.

Wheat Reports
Are To Be Filed

Acreage For 1947, 1948,
1949 And 1942 Asked
By AAA

Farmers are requested to file wheat acreage reports for any or all the years 1947, 1948 and 1949 by Friday, April 29, W. S. Traylor, chairman of Caldwell County AAA, announced this week.

Reports are also needed for farms for which a 1942 wheat allotment was established, he said.

This request has been made by the Washington office in anticipation of the passing of proposed legislation by Congress putting wheat back on allotment in 1950, Mr. Traylor said. Wheat was removed from the allotment plan in 1942, he said.

Now there is an oversupply and if the government is to keep a support price on the grain it will be necessary to regulate acreage grown, Mr. Traylor added.

"It is important for farmers to report to the AAA office whether they had wheat in any of the years mentioned so that no one will be omitted in establishing the allotments," Mr. Traylor said.

cently. A newly painted mailbox at the gate was first noted. Within the house, Mrs. Girdler pointed out several places where she had patched the diningroom wallpaper so cleverly that it wasn't noticeable. Next she called attention to the way she had made two windows look the same size, although one was considerably shorter. Putting blocks of wood above the short window, in line with the other one, she fastened the shade and curtain rod to them. When the curtains were hung, two windows appeared.

He says that invariably people try to give some kind of first aid in such cases instead of speeding the patient to hospital care. He pointed out that the role of the blanket, sheet or overcoat would be prevent further infection from getting into the burned area.

He says he never uses an anesthetic or analgesic (pain-killing procedures) on severely burned children, and rarely on adults because of the possibility of shock. He added "we've been amazed at how little pain a patient has" if cold air is kept from getting at the burned area.

EXTRINOL*

Yes, thousands of motorists have found that ordinary motor oils alone do not give them the complete lubrication protection they need. That's why they're changing to the oil with the "extra" — D-X motor oil with Extrinol.

This great new motor oil will help your motor deliver extra power because it helps clean your motor while you drive. It protects your bearings against rusting, pitting and wear. And it fights oil-eating sludge. It does all these things because it contains the "extra" of Extrinol — at no extra cost.

*Extrinol is the name of the complex chemicals that are added to D-X to make it a tougher, safer, more economical motor oil. Change to D-X with Extrinol. Get this Extrinol's extra protection today... at any D-X station.

Hospital Quick Is Ticket For Burns

Washington — (AP) — Don't waste valuable time in attempting first-aid when someone in your house gets severely burned, a Chicago doctor warns. Just wrap the patient in a blanket, sheet or even an overcoat and get him to a hospital fast, is the advice of Dr. Harvey S. Allen.

Don't try to apply a poultice or dry dressing, don't even wait to call your family doctor, says the Northwestern University Medical school surgeon. Just "go to a hospital" as quickly as possible, he says, so that treatment can commence rapidly. He spoke at a surgeon's meeting here.

He says that invariably people try to give some kind of first aid in such cases instead of speeding the patient to hospital care. He pointed out that the role of the blanket, sheet or overcoat would be prevent further infection from getting into the burned area.

Changes Made In ACP Fund Sharing

Percent Of Farmers Participating To Be Factor After 1949

Counties where farm-participation is highest will receive a proportionally larger share of Agricultural Conservation Program funds in future years, W. S. Taylor, chairman of the Caldwell County AAA, has been informed by the Production and Marketing Administration's State Committee, the group which administers the programs in the State.

This year and in 1948, Mr. Taylor said, funds were allocated to each county largely on the basis of total number of farms and total cropland in the county without regard to the percentage of farmers actually participating in the ACP. These factors will still be used in making allocations with the percentage-of-participation factor added, he said.

To date about 75 percent of Caldwell County farmers have filled out work sheets showing they wish to participate in the 1949 program, Mr. Taylor said. He added he was confident the other 25 percent would sign before the closing date, Friday, April 29.

Funds for 1949 will not be affected by the change in ruling, he said, but in 1950 allocation of funds will depend in part on the percentage of farmers who participated in 1949.

The new plan is designated to encourage farmers to stay in the program and carry out other practices besides lime and phosphate, such as cover crops, green manure crops, pasture practices and terracing, R. O. Wilson, chairman of the State Committee, said.

Soil-saving practices for which assistance is offered in the program this year may be carried out any time during the year, Mr. Taylor said.

Michigan State's three varsity football coaches all are graduates of other schools—Clarence Munn from Minnesota, Forest Evashevski from Michigan and Hugh Daugherty from Syracuse.

Recommends Pasture For Growing Pullets

Pasture, including alfalfa, clovers and grasses, saves on feed costs and at the same time helps to keep chickens healthy, according to C. E. Harris of the College of Agriculture and Home Economics, University of Kentucky.

If there is no pasture, pullets often are raised on old diseased chicken lots where they pick up worm eggs and disease germs, he said.

Top crop for chickens probably is Ladino clover. Bluegrass is good where it grows well. Other pasture crops recommended include rape, red clover, Korean lespedeza and alfalfa.

In addition to saving 10 to 20 percent on feed costs, Harris said pasture helped to put well-matured pullets in the laying house in early fall. More fall and winter eggs could be expected from pullets that are not full of worms and disease, he added.

Ag. Industries To Be Surveyed

Caldwell County Has Little Along That Line, Mabry Says

"Caldwell county doesn't have much to be surveyed," R. A. Mabry, county agent, said when discussing a proposed survey of agricultural processing industries, county by county, sponsored by the Kentucky Agricultural Production and Marketing Commission.

"Except for part of the milk, taken care of by the Princeton Cream and Butter Co., and some feed grains, processed by Princeton Mills, everything has to leave this county to be processed," Mr. Mabry said.

Nearly all dairy products are shipped outside the county and even outside the State, the county agent said. The same applies to tobacco, which is not even sold in the county, he added.

"Corn is fed to livestock, and some of them are sold at auction here," Mr. Mabry said. "Then the animals are shipped immediately to be processed elsewhere."

The Commission, through county agents in 110 counties and Agricultural and Industrial TOMB FOR THREE—Spectators view wreckage in Manchester, Ga., (April 29) after the engine of a train crashed through a rain-weakened trestle on a mountainside. The engine, tender, and one car left the tracks and Engineer Guy Pressley, Fireman Frank Terry and Brake-man Johnny Hill, all from Manchester, perished when they were buried in the wreckage. Reds Black Out Shanghai—(AP)—The Communist "bamboo curtain" around North China extends to the stratosphere. It not only contains the news, but weather reports as well.

Much of Asia's weather is born in the high-pressure areas of Siberia. It often undergoes great change as it crosses Manchuria and North China into the low-pressure areas of the south.

For this reason, accurate forecasting requires regular reports from the north, but for the past several months the Communists have blacked them out.

Forecasters no longer can depend on the data which once came regularly from Mukden, Tientsin, Peiping and other northern centers. Except for a very rare report from some pilot flying over red territory, the weatherman these days makes up his forecast largely on a basis of past experience.

Development Board in the other 10, is trying to get complete records on agricultural processing industries in the State.

This is being done, Chairman Harry F. Walters said, so that records may be made available in case new agricultural industries desire to come into a territory.

"It is absolutely imperative," he said, "that there be some type of study made that we may be able to give an intelligent answer as to the number of agricultural industries located in that territory and the amount of labor used in each."

Exactly 701,243 spectators have witnessed Santa Clara-California football games since the rivalry began in 1898.

Stanford's veteran baseball coach, Harry Wolter, is a member of the Santa Clara graduating class of 1906.

AND ONE TO GROW ON: RECOLLECTIONS OF A MAINE BOYHOOD, By John Gould, with drawings by G. Wendroth Saunders (Morrow; $3)

"If you was to have your druthers," one boy asks a friend in this book, "which would you druthers—go fishing?" Fishing is the answer. But if I had my druthers, I read this plain, unpretentious account of a New England childhood, the most hilarious book of the season.

This is really the story of a youngster's education. Learning to pick the best cake at a Grange sale is preparation for picking a wife, says Gould. Watching the town drunk, Les Burbage, or "the foolish fellow" who does odd jobs, or Sophie who paints her cheeks, helps a boy grow up;

the ice pond is "an educational institution."

Practically any Maine tide-water town, says the author, is described here. It's a place where "a man did as he'd a mind to," and so, full of "characters": Cap'n Babcock who "had so much much resistance he didn't even buy things he wanted," and the church-goer who refused to say he hoped to go to heaven, was asked if that meant he intended to go to hell, and replied, "I like it here," and the hermit who got rich, and Mark Martin who raised forty million rabbits. There are geraniums in tin cans, the woods with squirrels and birds, the shore with mounds of shells, the long dizzy coast down unplowed winter roads, the school recitations.

Why some things are funny to me but another man's poison, I can't explain. Yet I find these recollections side-splitting, and at some pages I doubled up in laughter. Nat with his practical jokes, and the cow that would give down milk, and the Navy ship which, lost and adrift, was told Goldthwaite's farm was right over yonder, all much funnier than most fare. But the story to end stories is about Maybaskets, the forgotten clothesline and the tativator, the kiss, the rapeseed drink and the lemon cooking, to go home... it's the story of a young love, 10-year-old love, unknowing but instinctively right, romantic and yet practical. This is the epitome of childhood, all clumsy and stumbling knees and elbows, exuberant delight yet with a bit of heartache. It can happen only once a lifetime.

State Policemen Extend Welcome
Frankfort, Ky. — If a State Police stop you just previous to the Kentucky Derby, he may be intending to arrest you only to extend an official welcome to the famed racing capital.
Under the heading "Welcome Kentucky to the Derby," the police have prepared folders containing a map of Kentucky listing famous tourist attractions, together with a map of Louisville showing the principal highways leading to the city of traffic for Derby Day, May 5.
The folder also contains the information to motorists: "Whenever possible — Don't."

BRITISH LINER SINKS OFF BRAZIL—Waves break over the sinking British luxury liner Magdalena off entrance of Guanabara Bay, (April 26) in harbor of Rio de Janeiro. The liner went down shortly after this picture was made. The 17,500-ton ship of the Royal Mail Line enroute home from her maiden voyage, went aground Monday. She was being towed to Rio when she sank. At least 97 of her crew of 237 were rescued by late afternoon. The liner's 350 passengers were removed from the ship soon after she ran aground. (AP Wirephoto via radio from Rio)

Veterans' News

World War II veterans maintaining G. I. Insurance were reminded today to be cautious in their use of the 31-day grace period allowed for premium payments.

Take the case of Veteran John Doe. Doe's G. I. Insurance premium falls due on the first of every month. If he doesn't find it convenient to pay his premium when due he has a grace period of 31 days in which he can make payment and keep his insurance from lapsing.

But if John Doe makes a habit of using this grace period every month he is running an extra risk that his policy will lapse because of a few days' forgetfulness.

In Doe's case, his monthly premium will be due May 1 although his insurance will not lapse if he makes his payment by May 31. However, if he waits until May 31, another premium will be due the next day, June 1. And, if he doesn't make his June payment within 31 days of June 1 his policy will automatically lapse.

The danger is that Doe, as well as thousands of other veterans in the habit of using the grace period each month, is making payments so close to the absolute deadline that a delay of just one or two days may cause him to lose his valuable insurance protection.

The grace period is intended to protect the veteran's insurance in emergencies and, insurance officials say, should not be used regularly.

VA officials advise all veterans with National Service (GI) Life Insurance to pay their premiums when due and to use the 31-day grace period sparingly.

Danger of allowing insurance to lapse through habitual use of the grace period is more acute for veterans who pay their premiums on a monthly basis, but it is an important point to remember for

Farm In Fescue Other Pond

When Hughes Goodman of Breckinridge county first saw Ky. 31 fescue he was so impressed with it that in 1947 he seeded all but five acres of his 175-acre farm to this crop. The remaining five acres are in burley. Last year Mr. Goodman harvested from 200 to 500 pounds an acre of certified seed, or a total of about 40,000 pounds. He recently top-dressed his field with nitrogen in preparation for another seed crop, said Farm Agent Kenneth Brabant.

For thrift as well as style... Studebaker's the '49 buy word

Here's what you get for your Studebaker dollar
New decorator-fabric upholstery • New body colors • Self-adjusting brakes • Variable ratio "extra-leverage" steering • Panoramic vision • Seats centered between the axles • Low center of gravity • Glare-proof "black light" instrument dials • Automatic bill holder—available on Champions at slight added cost, but standard on other models. • Automatic overdrive, climate heating and ventilating, white sidewall tires and wheel trim rings or discs are optional at extra cost on all models.

THE clean-lined look of a 1949 Studebaker tells you it's a car with the right build for thrift. You don't see a trace of cumbersome excess bulk in those trim, graceful body contours. There's no gas-wasting surplus poundage in the rugged Studebaker chassis underneath.

This is motoring's most advanced kind of designing—it cuts driving costs substantially every mile.

Stop in for a look around and let us give you the names of some Studebaker owners to check with. You'll be amazed to learn what they save.

Under good conditions or bad, your Funk's "G" Hybrid will produce more and better corn for you. Under good conditions Funk's "G" makes the most of the favorable factors to produce record yields.

If you have an unfavorable season, weather-proofed "G" Hybrids are real protection for you. "Bred to beat the elements," these famous strains actually make some of their best records when the "breaks" are against them.

So plant, with confidence, Funk's "G" Hybrids.
